Image editing is a pretty complex subject, and there are so many kinds of software that are used for this that it's best to take a look at the basics before beginning an image editing project. 1. Open the photo in Photoshop. This is probably the first step any beginner would take. Opening the photo to work on is the first step in any image editing, and the way to open is by clicking on the Photo icon in the top-left corner of the screen. Photo Eye Image eye image close 2. Add your photo to the Layers panel. Adding layers is the first step to any photo editing. One of the ways to do this is by clicking on the New Layer icon on the Layers panel. 3. Select the photo you want to edit. With the photo in place, the next step is to select it. To do this, you can press and hold down the Ctrl key, and then click on the photo's thumbnail on the Layers panel. You can also click once on the photo and then press Shift+Ctrl+A, but this selects more areas of the photo, and is helpful if you want to move parts of the photo. You can also right-click on a photo's thumbnail to bring up a menu, and then choose Select from the menu. When you select the photo, Photoshop does a lot of behind-the-scenes work to change the look of the photo to the settings you have selected in the Photoshop CC Image Settings. 4. Adjust your photo settings. This is where you can edit the various settings for your photo, either individually or in a group. You can do this by first clicking on the image's thumbnail on the Layers panel. Then click on the "Image" icon on the toolbar to bring up the "Image Settings" window. The "Adjustments" section includes tools such as Brightness, Contrast, and many other options that can be set. You can also click on the little tabs above the Photo Correction section, to adjust the way the photo looks. 5. Sharpen your photo. A common task is to sharpen the photo, and this is usually part of sharpening the entire image, rather than just a single layer. It's best to do it by clicking on the Sharpen Tool icon

Q: Getting a list of pages/contents on a Drupal site I have a simple script that moves a site to a new subfolder in the same level as the website. My script now works for a site that has 3 levels under the root. But I need a way to recursively search through all levels for a folder. Drupal has a function for getting a list of pages: `hook_menu_alter()->menu_get_items()` but I cannot seem to get it working correctly. I can get the above function to work with a path like this: `mysite/page-2/page-3/articles`. But I need to get it to work with a path like this: `mysite/page/page/page/article/article/article` This is something I've been hunting for a solution to. Does anyone know of one? My Code:

function remove_sites_from_root($path) { $root = drupal_get_path('module', 'devel_build_compiled'); $site_list = drupal_get_path('module', 'devel_build_compiled'); $site_root = $root.'/'.$site_list; $old_version = $root.'.drupal_get_version(); $new_version = $root.'.drupal_get_new_version(); // This is to create a list of paths $list_paths = array(); $list_pages = array(); if (file_exists($root)) { // Get all sites foreach (fs::findFiles($root, '*') as $file) { // Get paths to the sites if ($contents = file_get_contents($file)) { $parts = explode(" ", $contents); $index = 0; foreach ($parts as $part) { $paths[] = trim($part); // Define if the path is an index or a content page
