This invention relates to adjustable supports for standing apparatus, such as work tables and the like, and more particularly, to adjustable supports which are supported on a pair of spaced parallel spaced apart cross bars mounted upon a pair of spaced parallel spaced apart platforms. The cross bars are mounted on the platforms by means of laterally extending hollow tubes which are telescoped over the cross bars. The extensions of the tubes laterally extend beyond the cross bars, and a bearing sleeve is provided on each extension for insertion into the cross bar to maintain the lateral extension rigidly in place. The present invention is an improvement over the adjustable supports disclosed in U.S. Pat. Nos. 2,761,750; 2,775,637; 2,793,854 and 3,044,345. The use of the lateral extensions for extending the bearing sleeves on and into place for each of the cross bars is undesirable, and in fact, causes difficulty in inserting the bearing sleeves. The bearing sleeves would be excessively extended to the limit of their sliding 6d1f23a050
